

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides laminated wood boards having improved structural and aesthetic features. The size, number and orientation of the plies provides a board that is resistant to damage and easily finished to produce a visually pleasing result.